4.Methodology, learning tasks, syllabus and resources

4.1.Methodological overview

The methodology followed in this course is oriented towards the achievement of the learning objectives. A wide range of teaching and learning tasks are implemented, such as lectures, practice sessions, tutorials and seminars.

4.2.Learning tasks

This course is organized as follows:

27304 - Introduction to Law

- Lectures (30 hours). Lectures by the professor have to be combined with case-solving sessions so that the students can show their analysis and problem-solving skills. There are 30 hrs of lectures. The knowledge and skills acquired by attending lectures will enhance students' performance when participating in case-solving sessions and when doing their out-of-class work.
- Practice sessions (30 hours). To get the most out of these sessions, the group will be divided into two subgroups. There are 30 hrs of case-solving sessions. Through case-method sessions, students are motivated to participate in class and to develop not only their skills in identifying and analyzing legal problems but also their oral expression abilities. To follow these sessions, students are required to do some legal and judiciary research in Law databases. These sessions will help students to become familiar with legal terms and expressions.
- Tutorials and seminars. The aforementioned activities are completed with tutorials and seminars that are quite useful to solve students' queries about the topics dealt with in lectures and case-solving sessions. Through these tutorials and seminars, the students' out-of-class work can be oriented and monitored.
- Autonomous work and study. This out-of-class work consists of:
 - o Reading the materials handed out or set by the professor.
 - o Information and materials search and analysis.
 - o Analysing and solving cases set by the professor.
 - o Personal study of the materials dealt with in the lectures and case-solving sessions.
