The learning process designed for this course is based on:

Starting from the premise that the students of the Master are university graduates in law, it is presumed that they already have the theoretical knowledge of the subjects of their degree, so the course will not focus on the explanation of theoretical issues, without prejudice to clarifications and discussions of this nature that may arise during the resolution of the practical cases. Therefore, the course will focus on the practical skills which are necessary to apply the theoretical knowledge.

60748 - Commercial Practice

However, it is recommended that the students, before proceeding with the resolution of the cases raised in each module, consult and revise the essential theoretical concepts in any commercial or procedural law manual. There is a non-exhaustive enumeration of manuals in the bibliography section. At the beginning of the course, a calendar will be delivered with the topics that will be discussed in each session.

It is required that the students attend the class with the materials and current commercial legislation that may be applicable.

The solutions proposed by the students will be exposed and debated in class. The professor will enhance the use of legal concepts and the correct reasoning.

4.2. Learning tasks

The program offered to the student to help him achieve the expected results includes the following activities:

In accordance with section 5.5.1.6 ACTIVIDADES FORMATIVAS, of the Master's Report, the activities of this subject consist of dynamic activities between the professor and their students, through the resolution of practical cases proposed in class. This includes the preparation and resolution of the cases, their presentation in class, analysis and defense of the proposed solutions and participation in debates, where the student will have to argue and support his proposals.
