4. Methodology, learning tasks, syllabus and resources

4.1. Methodological overview

The methodology followed in this course is oriented towards the achievement of the learning objectives. A wide range of teaching and learning tasks are implemented, such as theory sessions, practice sessions, tutorials and use of ICTs. In the practice sessions, whenever possible, the group will be split into two which will allow the students to participate more actively. Because of the characteristics of the subject, the theory sessions also have an essentially practical approach. However, it will be in the practice sessions where the students will be encouraged to take a more active role in their own learning processes. All in all, the aim is to learn by working.

4.2. Learning tasks

The course is organized as follows:

- Lectures (30 hours): Two hours per week. The participatory lecture model will be used. This model offers the lecturer the possibility of highlighting the most important aspects of each lesson, controlling the time given to explanation and guiding the students in the study of the subject. The lecturer will promote the participation of students by raising questions and presenting examples during the class. In this way, students will be able to discuss, think about and solve the problems in pairs and, finally, they will share their ideas with the rest of the class. The materials for this subject will be available in Reprography and/or in Moodle before the theoretical classes to make it easier for the students to follow the class. (NOTE: the theoretical lessons and the practical examples and exercises will be available in Reprography and the e-learning platform, but not the solutions).

- Practice sessions (30 hours): These will consist of solving practical exercises. The scheme will be as follows:

1. The practical exercises will be available in Moodle and/or Reprography before the practical classes.
2. Students will solve the exercises at home.
3. The teacher will ask for volunteers to solve the different parts.

- Tutorials: Students will have times for tutorials with the teachers of their group. They will also have the possibility of submitting queries by e-mail.

- Autonomous work (90 hours): It is essential that students distribute this workload throughout the term in order to assimilate the contents. This will make the learning of subsequent lessons easier.

- Use of ICTs as study and learning tools: The online learning platform Moodle will be used to post the syllabus, materials and practical exercises of the subject. Likewise, students will be provided with this teaching guide and other information that may be useful for them (announcements about practice sessions, news of interest, and so on).

- Exams. See section 3.1 on Assessment.

All lectures and seminars will be imparted onsite. In the case of a new health emergency caused by the current pandemic, all teaching will be moved online (provision of explanatory videos of the different topics of the program, email tutorials, on-line tutorials through video conference, complementary classes through Google Meet, etc.)
