4. Methodology, learning tasks, syllabus and resources

4.1. Methodological overview

The methodology followed in this course is oriented towards the achievement of the learning objectives. All class activities will be complemented by group or individual tutorials that form part of the face-to-face teaching and which can also be carried out by e-mail or via Moodle. The learning process is based on the students active participation and encourages the accurate planning of their autonomous work, which includes the writing of an optional individual essay. The learning process fosters the development of the students analytical skills and critical thinking, reasoning and argumentation, and involves the reading of the compulsory texts in the light of the recommended bibliography and the in-class teaching. English will be the language used in all class activities, tutorials, essays, and exams, and the literary texts shall be read in their original version.

4.2. Learning tasks

This is a 6 ECTS course organized as follows:

- Theory sessions (1.2 ECTS: 30 hours). They include the study of the historical and cultural context (naturalism, psychological realism, modernism and postmodernism), the main features of the literary production of the second half of the 20th century, the introduction to authors and texts, and the explanation of relevant critical and methodological approaches. The teacher will introduce these concepts with PowerPoint presentations and other materials available in Moodle. Student participation will be encouraged in these sessions by means of relevant questioning and prior knowledge-activating strategies.
- Practice sessions and group seminars (1.2 ECTS: 30 hours). These sessions consist on the critical analysis of the compulsory literary texts: a series of poems, short stories and fragments of longer works which constitute a representative selection of key texts of the American literature of the second half of the 20th century. Previous reading on the part of students is essential for the development of these sessions, which will include guided commentaries with the whole class, small group discussion, or the writing of brief individual or group analyses to be presented orally. Debates, questions, brainstorming or role play for character analysis will also be used in order to activate theoretical and practical knowledge, reinforce basic concepts and develop synthesizing, analyzing, interpreting, relating, and expressing skills as well as attitudes such as cooperation and valuation of the work of others.

- Individual and group tutorials (0.1 ECTS: 2.5 hours). Tutorial attendance (alternatively, e-mail consultations or participation on the Moodle platform) is compulsory for the guided writing of essays, and optional for the rest of issues concerning the course.
- Autonomous work and study.
 - Compulsory readings, use of secondary sources and Moodle materials (2.9 ECTS: 72.5 hours; or 3.5 ECTS: 87.5 hours for the students who do not write up the optional essay). The students' independent activities include revising the concepts studied in class, as well as reading and analyzing the compulsory texts, reading secondary sources, and visiting the Moodle page.
 - Optional essay (0.6 ECTS: 15 hours). It consists on the elaboration of an optional essay. By the 8th week of the semester, students will decide on a topic that will be agreed upon with the teacher. They will work on the development of a working hypothesis that will be presented to the teacher by the 13th week, together with the essay outline and the selected bibliography. The completed essay will be handed in by the day of the exam.
- Assessment taks (0.1 ECTS: 2.5 hours) A global exam will take place on the day assigned by the Faculty. Students will have 2.5 hours at the most. The type of exam is described in the Assessment section of this guide.
